

Shyamendra Singh's life has always been about swimming against the tide. Born in the erstwhile royal family of Nagod in Satna district in MP, he had his heart set on working in the tourism sector from a young age. "It was on a family trip to Tree Tops at Chitwan National Park in Nepal that I decided on a career in wildlife tourism," he says.

As providence would have it, in 1986, retired major and 1971 war veteran Chandrakant Singh invited Shyamendra to invest with him in a wildlife tourism project at Madla, a quiet village on the
