ICTs, energy security, major international and regional hotspots, and national security development issues in the meeting (Press information Bureau 2017). Further, the 2018 Johannesburg BRICS summit underscored that the international community should establish a genuinely broad international counter-terrorism coalition and support the UN's central coordinating role in this process. The group stressed that the threat of chemical and biological terrorism the BRICS would launch multilateral negotiations on an international convention to suppress chemical and biological terrorism acts besides at the Conference on Disarmament (Ministry of External Affairs of India 2018). Thus, eventually, the BRICS came up with a Counter-Terrorism Strategy aimed at strengthening the security of the BRICS group. The primary objective of the BRICS Counter-Terrorism cooperation is to complement and strengthen the existing bilateral and multilateral ties among the BRICS countries. And also to make a meaningful contribution to the global efforts of preventing and combating terrorism (Ministry of External Affairs of India 2020). It shows how the BRICS is tilting and prioritizing the Security issues. It shows Russia's efforts to make the BRICS one of the prominent centers of global politics dealing with all the global problems.

Future Russian Strategies with BRICS Group

Russia believes that BRICS will become one of the critical pieces in the global chessboard. Therefore, Russia regards BRICS as one of the alternative models for global relations, which can override the old West–East, North–South binary in international politics. Thus, Russia naturally supports and promotes BRICS in world affairs (Lavrov 2012).[45] During the election campaign of 2012 (Moskovskie Novosti, February 27 issue),[46] the current Russian President Putin wrote an article called ‘Russia and the Changing World,’ where he mentioned that BRICS would have to work together more closely within the UN. He also asserted that Russia would continue to prioritize its relations with the bloc, ‘the most telling symbol of transferring from a unipolar to a more just world order’ (Putin 2012).[47] What makes BRICS a more influential group in present global politics is that it has not emerged on geographical divisions or a particular issue of concern. Instead, it is a worldwide body with global objectives (Akulov 2012). It has to diversify its goals very soon to counter emerging threats to
