is extending unprecedented economic cooperation with the Russian federation. In the 2020 Russia BRICS summit declaration, Russia reiterated that the BRICS is committed to multilateralism and the principles of mutual respect, sovereign equality, democracy, inclusiveness, and strengthened collaboration between group members. The BRICS will continuously strengthen and reform international governance and make it more inclusive, representative, democratic with meaningful and greater participation of developing countries in international relations. The BRICS strongly believes that the present interconnected international challenges should be addressed by strengthened international cooperation by reforming the existing multilateral system. The BRICS group underscores that global organizations like the UN, the WTO, the WHO, the IMF, and others are imperative. They should be driven by member states and promote the interest of all group members (Russia BRICS declaration 2020). For that, Russia will support the international system. However, it should be more open, transparent, and accountable to all the actors of international relations. For it to materialize, Russia has a herculean task ahead to manage all the board members of the BRICS. Otherwise, the BRICS will be another group of emerging international relations.

Conclusion

The emergence of BRICS made Russia more confident, unlike in the early 1990s period. The period was more stressful for Russia in its international role. However, the BRICS has given Russia the other way to impact any global decision-making situation strongly. It proved a few times already. That is the way, for Russia, BRICS is one of the prominent avenues to put forward Russia's foreign policy interests more effectively in international relations.

Further, there is a lot of responsibility on the BRICS in these present global affairs. Notably, the Covid-19 pandemic hit the global economy unprecedently, precisely, the global south. Being one of the significant actors of the BRICS, Russia has the responsibility to coordinate and cooperate with other BRICS groups’ significant powers. There have been frequent skirmishes between India and China over border issues, which can hinder the progress of the BRICS group. Moreover, Russia and China also have different perspectives on China's economic impact on BRICS affairs.