leadership by the central states of the world is required. This, in turn, should be represented in geopolitical and civilizational terms. Scholars Aleksandra Sergeeva (2017) and Lena Kutovaya (2017) of the Institute of Asian and African Studies said that the Russian foreign ministry has a separate department dealing with BRICS affairs. That shows how much importance that Russia is giving to BRICS in its foreign policy framework.

Furthermore, Alexei D. Voskressenski (2017), Dean, School of Political Affairs, Moscow University of International Relations, Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, believed that;

> Russia has the alternate platform to stress upon its global reach. With this kind of fora Russia builds it relations with emerging nations in global politics. However, that does not mean that BRICS completely negates the existing world order. However, trying to make it a more democratic, representative, innovative and pragmatic world order. Due to these objectives of BRICS Russia's objectives will also be fulfilled its global affairs objectives.

And, 'The Concept of participation of the Russian federation in BRICS 2013,' which is based on a new Russian federation constitution, regarded that: 'The establishment of BRICS reflects an objective trend in global development, one towards the formation of a polycentric system of international relations. This one is increasingly characterized by the use of non-institutionalized global governance mechanisms, network-based diplomacy, and growing economic interdependence of states.' The BRICS group can influence Russia to extend its foreign policy multi-directional to expand language, culture, and information. Thus, that BRICS challenges the Western world's hegemonic power. Again, scholar Aleksandra Sergeeva (2017) and Lena Kutovaya (2017) of Institute of Asian and African Studies, Moscow State University stated,

> RIC led to the establishment of the BRICS forum. BRICS has a larger perspective and scope in present world politics. It is a unique association for Russia's foreign policy. It is a reflection of the objective reality of Russian foreign policy. BRICS is trying to implement its decisions in international relations. However, it
