[Crossref]

Wohlforth, William C. 2015. The Return of Realpolitik, Stability vs. Change in US Led World Order. Russia in Global Affairs, [Online: web]. http://eng.globalaffairs.ru/number/The-Return-of-Realpolitik-17536. Accessed 7 Jan 2016.

World Bank. 2021. World Development Indicators Database, World Bank, July 1, [Online, web]. https://databank.worldbank.org/data/download/GDP.pdf. Accessed 24 Aug 2021.

Xinhua. 2014. Xi's Visit to Promote Cooperation Amongst BRICS, Enhance Ties with Latin America. Xinhua, July 11, Beijing.

Xu, Jia, and Wei Cai. 2007. International System and China's Choice. International Politics Journal 4: 143–144.

Xuanzun, Liu. 2020. China Releases Report on US Military Presence in Asia-Pacific, Warns of Increased Conflict Risk. Global Times, June 21. https://www.globaltimes.cn/content/1192340.shtml.

Yan, Zhang. 2011. BRICS Works for Shared Prosperity. The Hindu, April 13, New Delhi.

Yeltsin, Boris. 1997. It Was So Under the Peter the Great, It Will Be Under Boris L, quoted in Nezavisimaya Gazeta, September 19, pp. 1–2, reproduced in Russian Press Digest, September 19, 1997.

Yue, Cui. 2013. Why the BRICS? A Chinese View. Center for East-West Cultural and Economics Studies 10 (1): 51–58.

Zakaria, Fareed. 2008. Rise of the Rest. Newsweek, [Online: web]. http://www.newsweek.com/excerpt-zakarias-post-american-world-89645. Accessed 13 July 2014.

Zhu, Dawei. 2008. The Strategy of 'Peaceful Rise' and China's Participation in International Regimes. Journal of Jeshuo University 29: 88–92.

Footnotes

1 It can be termed as war of ideology started after the end of World War II between USSR and the United States and continued till the disintegration of Soviet Union in 1991.

2 Having or relating to multiple powers at the same time.

3 It was established in 1975 with six members. It is a group of highly industrialized countries. The group consists of UK, United States, France, Germany, Canada, Japan, and Russia. However, Russia withdrew its membership from the G-8.