yellows and greens. Whimsical MDF cut-outs of trees, birds and clouds drift across the walls, while storage heights and star and moon motif cabinet handles are carefully scaled to her current height, ensuring the room can easily adapt as she grows. Finally, the east-facing master bedroom is oriented to capture the soft morning light. A calming blue-grey accent wall envelops the room, while a cane headboard continues the material thread seen in the living spaces. By the window, an ikat-upholstered seat offers a quiet corner for pause, completing a home that does not just house its inhabitants, but intimately knows and grows with them.

As the afternoon sun warms the lime plaster walls, the true achievement of this home becomes clear. By favouring authentic family rituals over fleeting trends, we created a space that bypasses the superficial. Its everyday comforts form the core of the family's memories, proving that a timeless home only deepens its sense of belonging with each passing season.
