GRANDEE AMBITIONS

From Jagan Mohan Reddy's Rs 450 crore Rushikonda complex in Visakhapatnam to Arvind Kejriwal's Rs 60 crore Flagstaff Road renovation in Delhi, the 'sheesh mahals (glass palaces)' ex-chief ministers built for themselves are under scrutiny. So it's no surprise that Telangana CM Revanth Reddy's 'Bodhi Pavilion' is under the scanner. Built inside Hyderabad's MCR HRD Institute campus, it serves as a camp office near his Banjara Hills home. But Revanth is playing this one on the front foot, taking reporters on a tour of the place to counter the "extravagance" charges of the Opposition Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS). He even showed them the washrooms, quipping that they were not bulletproof, a dig at BRS chief and ex-CM K. Chandrashekar Rao's Rs 50-crore Pragati Bhavan, where even the toilets are reportedly fortified. Revanth had refused to occupy the KCR-built "palace" (now renamed Praja Bhavan), preferring to make it an example of the former regime's profligacy.

A-MEN FOR AZAM

Azam Khan was once one of Uttar Pradesh's most powerful netas, but his men say he is now trapped in a chakravyuh of 'A' men (those whose names begin with 'A'). The troubles began after Yogi Adityanath became CM in 2017. In came Anjaneya K. Singh (then Rampur district magistrate who exposed the 'irregularities' in his Jauhar Trust), and Ajay Pal Sharma (the SP who got Khan jail time in 2020 in the cases against him and his family). In 2022, bastion Rampur fell to the BJP's Akash Saxena in the assembly byelection. Now, current DM Ajay Dwivedi is bent on demolishing 38 'illegal' buildings of his Mohammad Ali Jauhar University. The 'A-men' surely seem bent on seeing his downfall.
