GURUSPEAK

"As we grow our student body and graduate 150-200 lawyers in the future, you will see a huge impact on the legal profession across the country. We are excited with NLSIU's development where we have high qualitative impact at scale"

PROF. SUDHIR KRISHNASWAMY
Vice Chancellor, NLSIU

STUDENTSPEAK

"I have had the chance to connect with faculty members and learn through conversations that go beyond the classroom. Guest lectures, mooting and other activities gave me practical exposure"

District Legal Services Authority and other stakeholders, including civil society organisations, lawyers and social workers, for the provision of legal aid. "We are very happy we will launch India's largest clinical programme this year," says NLSIU Vice Chancellor Prof. Sudhir Krishnaswamy.

The other intervention, via the NLSIU Litigation Fellowships, will support 30 early-career, first-generation litigators annually with a monthly stipend of Rs 30,000, professional mentorship and continuous learning opportunities for two years. "We hope that, over a period of time, we will be able to show substantial impact on shaping the legal profession beyond the law school," says Prof. Krishnaswamy. For NLSIU, that's a genetic trait. ■
