New programmes, multidisciplinary learning and industry partnerships are helping CHRIST University redefine management education for changing times

By AJAY SUKUMARAN

Laying down a multidisciplinary foundation is the focus at the School of Business and Management at CHRIST (Deemed to be University). Over the past year, that approach has resulted in a bouquet of new programmes that go beyond the traditional BBA (Bachelor of Business Administration) course. The gains are reflected in this year's rankings, where the School of Business and Management rose to second place from fourth in 2022, emerging as the most improved college in its category.

These include an entirely new five-year programme called the iMBA (Integrated Master of Business Administration), designed to ensure a smooth transition from undergraduate to postgraduate studies. "The most important quality the industry looks for in students is how inquisitive they are and
