A CENTURY OF BRILLIANCE, A FUTURE OF POSSIBILITIES

THE KGK GROUP STORY

For most of the world, KGK Group is synonymous with diamonds and coloured gemstones. Yet, under the stewardship of Patriarch Mr. Navrattan Kothari and the strategic leadership of Vice Chairman Mr. Sanjay Kothari, the 120-year-old Jaipur-born enterprise has evolved into a diversified global group.

The KGK story began in 1905, when Shri Keshrimalji Kothari started trading Burmese coloured gemstones in Jaipur. Shri Ghisilalji Kothari carried the vision forward, leading the Group's early growth and strengthening the values on which the enterprise was built. What began as a modest venture founded on integrity and an understanding of rare materials gradually expanded across generations and geographies.

Today, with a presence across 20+ countries, KGK operates across gems and jewellery, mining, real estate, natural stones, hospitality, education and technology.

The modern transformation of KGK was shaped by Mr. Navrattan Kothari, who joined the family business in the early 1960s. His foresight took the Group beyond gemstone trading and into diamond manufacturing during the 1970s, laying the foundation for a fully integrated global enterprise. Today, KGK holds De Beers Sightholder status and operates diamond and jewellery manufacturing facilities across India, South Africa, China, Sharjah, Botswana and many more. It is among the few organisations with capabilities spanning mining, sourcing, manufacturing, distribution and retail.

Mr. Navrattan Kothari's legacy also remains closely connected with Jaipur through Bhagwan Mahaveer Cancer Hospital and Research Centre, established in 1997; the restoration of Jal Mahal and Man Sagar Lake; and training initiatives that have created skilled professionals for the industry. His contribution has been recognised through many industry stalwarts and awards.

Mr. Sanjay Kothari, who began his KGK journey in 1986, has been a principal architect of the Group's international expansion and diversification. Based in Hong Kong, he helped establish diamond processing in Mumbai, expanded jewellery manufacturing into SEEPZ and strengthened KGK's presence across Hong Kong, China, Thailand, Japan, Taiwan, and Southeast Asia.

One of the most important outcomes of this diversification has been KGK Realty. Launched in 2010, it brought the Group's values of precision, quality, material understanding and trust into the built environment. Over the years, it has established a strong presence in Jaipur's evolving real estate landscape, with a portfolio that spans multiple segments and responds to the city's changing residential and commercial needs.

Its developments range from premium housing to high-end luxury residences, commercial and mixed-use projects, plotted communities and industrial spaces. This diversified approach reflects the company's focus on creating thoughtfully planned developments for a wide spectrum of users and investors.

The breadth of this vision can be seen across projects such as Aarohan, Aahvan, Aakar, Akshar, Amulya, Aayam, Nav Nilay, Sarvam, Infiniti Homes and Lehariya, each contributing a distinct proposition to Jaipur's expanding urban fabric.

Today, KGK Group employs more than 18,000 people worldwide. The fifth generation- Mr. Saransh Kothari, Mr. Vedant Kothari, Mr. Arnav Kothari, Ms. Shivika Kothari and Ms. Sukriti Kothari Khaitan- is already contributing across different businesses.

From gemstones and diamonds to homes, workplaces, natural stones, restaurants, hotels, schools and social institutions, KGK's journey is the story of a family enterprise that continues to expand its possibilities without losing sight of the values with which it began.
