Panerai

Luminor Luna Rossa GMT PAM01791

Panerai gives its Luna Rossa collaboration a useful traveller's complication and a more wearable 40 mm steel case. The signature crown-protecting bridge, Incabloc shock protection and 100-metre water resistance establish the practical foundation, with every case pressure-tested beyond its stated rating. A red, sail-shaped GMT hand tracks home time, while calibre P.900/GMT delivers a three-day reserve. This is also the first Luna Rossa model on a metal bracelet, equipped with Panerai's tool-free Click Release system for fast changes between polished decks and rougher territory.

Longines

HydroConquest, 2026 Generation

The redesigned HydroConquest keeps the useful parts and removes much of the bulk. Offered in 39 mm and 42 mm steel cases, it combines a screw-down crown, 300-metre water resistance and a crisp unidirectional ceramic bezel. Calibre L888.5 supplies 72 hours of reserve and a silicon hairspring with enhanced magnetic resistance. Both bracelet styles receive secure clasps with tool-free micro-adjustment. Few adventure watches offer this much genuine capability without looking overequipped.
