Golden Geometry

Cartier understands that a jewellery watch need not rely on diamonds to make an entrance. The 2026 Baignoire Clou de Paris takes the maison's softly oval case and covers its dial, case and rigid 18K yellow-gold bangle in tiny pyramidal studs. The pattern is geometric, tactile and almost armour-like, yet the petite 24.6 by 19.3 mm proportions keep it distinctly feminine. Every surface is polished by hand so the relief catches light differently with each movement of the wrist, while flush push-buttons preserve the bracelet's uninterrupted curve. A sapphire-set crown supplies Cartier's familiar blue accent. Quartz is entirely appropriate here. The movement keeps quiet while the gold does all the talking.
