WATCH SPECIAL

THE WOMEN'S COLLECTION

CHANEL

Noeud de Camélia Embroidered Cuff

Couture Bloom

Chanel makes the bracelet the spectacle. Maison Lesage hand-embroidered the grosgrain-effect leather bow with black sequins and internally gilded glass beads, giving darkness its own shimmer. At its centre, an 18K white-gold camellia bordered by 60 baguette diamonds conceals a black lacquered dial. Checking the time becomes a private reveal. The contrast is pure Chanel: soft embroidery against hard stones, couture technique beside a discreet quartz movement. Limited to 20 pieces, it is less of a watch worn to accessorise an outfit than the reason for everything else to remain quiet.

PIAGET

Sixtie ref. G0A51335

Stone Poise

Piaget's Sixtie is feminine without becoming fragile. Its 29 mm rose-gold case adopts a sharply stepped trapezoidal form, softened by the warmth of the metal and a navy alligator strap. The real seduction is the blue quartzite dial, whose natural pale veining makes every example individual and turns a compact watch into a miniature geological landscape. The quartz calibre 57P keeps the profile to a slim 6.5 mm. There are more complicated watches here, but few understand as instinctively that jewellery begins with shape, colour and the confidence to stop adding.
