

children, senior citizens, and working professionals, this planning creates a safer, calmer, and more balanced environment.
Speaking about the vision behind the project, Mr. Prashanth Rao, Director, Poulomi Estates, says, "Poulomi Florique is our heartfelt entry into Bengaluru, and we wanted it to reflect what the city has always stood for: nature, openness, intelligence, and quality of life. With Bloomscapes, our intention is to create homes where families do not just live inside four walls but experience greenery, fragrance, light, and calm every day. For us, Florique is not only a residential project; it is a promise to bring back a more thoughtful and nature-connected way of living."

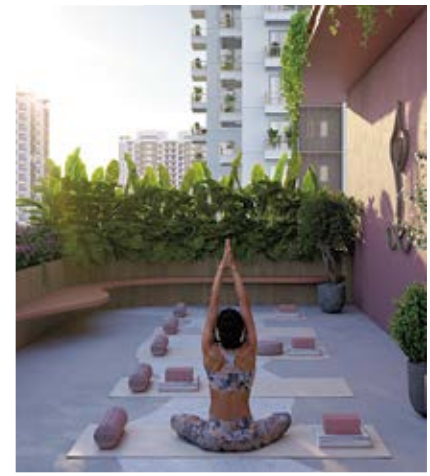

The location further strengthens the project's appeal. Thanisandra and North Bengaluru have emerged as some of the city's most promising residential corridors, supported by proximity to Manyata Tech Park, Bhartiya City, Karle SEZ, Hebbal, Nagawara, the Outer Ring Road, and the airport corridor. For professionals and families, this means access to major employment hubs while remaining connected to education, healthcare, retail, and lifestyle infrastructure.

Poulomi Florique has also been planned around the changing needs of Bengaluru's homebuyers. The project features Vastu-compliant homes, no common walls, and residences designed to support natural light, ventilation, privacy, and practical family living. The absence of common walls enhances the sense of independence within apartment living, while the layouts are planned to accommodate both everyday family routines and formal hosting.

Sustainability is another important pillar of the project. Poulomi Florique is IGBC Platinum pre-certified, reflecting its commitment to responsible development and future-ready living. Green building practices, open spaces, landscape planning, and environmental sensitivity come together to support a more conscious residential community.

The project also embraces all-generation living. From children's activity zones and sports areas to wellness spaces, quiet corners, community areas, and a private party deck, Poulomi Florique is designed to serve every member of the family. Its planning recognises that a modern home is no longer just a private residence — it is part of a larger ecosystem of wellbeing, social life, recreation, and emotional comfort.

A distinctive feature of the project is its aromatherapy-inspired landscape approach. The idea is to create outdoor spaces where fragrance, flowers, and greenery gently influence the mood of the community. Without overstating wellness, Florique uses nature as a design language — softening the pace of city life and making everyday moments feel more peaceful.

For Bengaluru's homebuyers, Poulomi Florique arrives at a time when the definition of a good home is changing. Buyers are looking for more than location and amenities. They want openness, sustainability, privacy, trusted developers, better layouts, and spaces that support mental and emotional wellbeing. Poulomi Florique addresses these expectations with a clear and differentiated vision.

As Poulomi Estates steps into Bengaluru, Florique stands as a statement of intent — a project that does not simply enter the market but seeks to add a new dimension to premium residential living. It brings together the brand's legacy, Bengaluru's love for nature, and the aspirations of modern families into one thoughtfully designed community.

In every sense, Poulomi Florique is designed around a simple yet powerful belief: life feels better when it is surrounded by nature. And at Florique, that life is always in bloom.
