STUDENTSPEAK

"IHM Pusa has a unique atmosphere, students get access to industry-level resources such as restaurants, kitchens and labs to help us to hone our skills"

VAIBHAVI RAO
BSc Hospitality and Hotel Administration, 2nd semester

5 REASONS WHY IT IS THE BEST

1. Factoring in industry developments, IHM Pusa is overhauling the curriculum, with the full cycle to be completed by 2026. A lot of traditional content has been replaced and courses merged to make way for multi-disciplinary elective subjects.

2. Besides its flagship three-year BSc and two-year MSc programmes in Hospitality and Hotel Administration, IHM now offers four more undergraduate diploma programmes in Culinary, Pastry, Food/Beverage Service and Housekeeping operations.

3. IHM Pusa students extensively use the restaurant management software 'Posist' from 'Restroworks', not only to order and manage delivery of supplies but also to analyse consumption and cost patterns. Content creation and documentation are also an essential part of the curriculum for students, which is shared on the official social media handles. The institute also has a comprehensive property management ecosystem in place.

4. IHM Pusa has a dozen clubs to harness special interests of students such as music, dance, writing, public speaking, sustainability and technology. The clubs are self-sustaining groups, with the leadership baton passed on each year.

5. The institute has inked several MoUs with hospitality groups such as Indian Hotels Company Ltd (Taj Hotels), Marriott Group, Intercontinental Hotels Group, Radisson Hotels Group and The Park Group, formalising the process of industry-academia interaction and grooming talent for the industry. Le Meridien, New Delhi, is also giving hands-on training opportunities to the F&B service diploma students.
