60 PER CENT respondents think we are doing enough to protect the environment, up from 53 per cent in Aug. 2025

Q. What do you think of communal harmony under the NDA-led Union government?

Though most perceive communal harmony, a third feel it has deteriorated

Q. If you think communal harmony in the country has deteriorated, who is responsible for it?

One in five of those who feel an erosion of communal harmony blame the BJP-RSS cent from higher-income households.

The debate over caste-based reservation is a divisive one. The fact that 37.3 per cent believe it has benefits but needs recalibration reflects people seeking adjustment rather than rupture. Compared to August 2025, hard opposition has softened slightly. The implementation of the Uniform Civil Code (UCC) is one of the last remaining planks of the BJP's core agenda. Support for it stands at 73.9 per cent in January 2026, significantly higher than August 2025 (65.1 per cent) and broadly consistent with peaks over the past five years.

Despite Opposition attacks framing the Modi government as promoting crony capitalism, a majority 53.2 per cent now believes corruption has reduced, higher than 45.2 per cent in August 2025. Communal harmony under the NDA government remains an emotional issue. While more respondents say harmony has improved than those who say it has deteriorated, the gap is narrow. When deterioration is perceived, blame rests primarily with the BJP-RSS ecosystem, though fewer respondents think so compared with August 2025.

More people (44.1 per cent) now believe India has become safer for women compared to August 2025. Yet a sizeable minority believes it has become less safe (38.4 per cent), meaning high-profile crimes and uneven enforcement shape perception.

CLEAN AIR CONCERNS

A growing majority believes the country is doing enough to protect the environment, a sharp rise since February 2025, and nearly 79 per cent demand that clean air be treated as a top priority. Respondents distribute the blame for Delhi's foul air across current and past governments, with the single largest share acknowledging collective responsibility.

A spate of dog-bite cases in Delhi-NCR prompted the Supreme Court to order the relocation of strays, only to modify its directive later. Unsurprisingly, most respondents support either humane population control or a blended approach.

The January 2026 INDIA TODAY MOTN poll depicts a people who want competence and delivery. This is not a restless India. It is an exacting one. ■
