

Ushering in a New Era for Fragrance & Flavours

How a father–son duo is redefining innovation, strengthening Sacheerome's legacy in F&F at global stage

Every legacy begins with a spark. An idea that survives time because each generation chooses to carry it forward. At Sacheerome, that spark has travelled across four generations, shaping a homegrown fragrance and flavour house rooted in craftsmanship, creativity, and deep respect for the art of perfumery.

Today, this legacy stands at a meaningful intersection of tradition and transformation, guided by the vision of Manoj Arora, Chief Perfumer & Managing Director, and carried forward by his son Dhruv Arora, Director and next-generation leader shaping Sacheerome's future chapters. Their story reflects how heritage can evolve thoughtfully without losing its foundation.

Carrying the Craft Forward: Manoj Arora's Journey

Long before fragrance became a business, it was a passion passed down to Manoj Arora. Years of immersing himself into the craft shaped his instinct