

and profit after tax of ₹1,832 crore, serving 150 million customers across 1,500 towns and cities.

In December 2022, Dr. Singhel led the launch of India's first insurance-backed surety bond, inaugurated by Union Minister Nitin Gadkari. This innovation freed billions of rupees of locked working capital for infrastructure contractors, accelerating national development. Insurance surety bonds have since crossed ₹10,000 crore in contracts with the National Highways Authority of India alone, validating the vision.

As Chairman of the General Insurance Council from 2022 onwards, Dr. Singhel transitioned from company builder to industry architect. He launched the "Cashless Everywhere" initiative, streamlined regulatory frameworks, and played a pivotal role in shaping national policy through platforms such as Bima Sugam, Bima Vistaar, and Bima Vahak.

His advocacy for "Zero Uninsured Vehicles," highlighting that over half of Indian vehicles lack third-party insurance, received Parliamentary recognition in 2024. In 2023, the General Insurance Festival of India achieved a Guinness World Record for attendance, signaling the industry's maturity. In March 2025, Bajaj Finserv acquired Allianz's remaining stake, creating a fully Indian-owned Bajaj General Insurance Limited.

Dr. Singhel's honors include honorary doctorates, professorships, and numerous national and international awards. Yet his true legacy lies not in accolades, but in impact—visible in farmers protected from climate shocks, families safeguarded during medical crises, entrepreneurs enabled to take digital risks, and senior citizens shielded from catastrophic healthcare costs.

Most importantly, it is visible in the leaders he created. Eleven CEOs, seventy CXOs, and multiple new institutions stand as living proof that when leaders build people rather than empires, greatness multiplies. As Chairman of the General Insurance Council, Dr. Singhel now operates at an altitude where his vision of "Insurance for All by 2047"is becoming national reality.

His formula remains deceptively simple: solve for the many, keep promises especially when it is difficult, remain composed amid chaos, and build people even when they may leave. Because true leadership is not measured by quarterly results, but by the leaders and institutions that endure long after.
