Dr. Rabindranath Mukherjee: A Life Devoted to Humanity

Dr. Rabindranath Mukherjee

In a world where countless social challenges remain unseen and unaddressed, Dr. Rabindranath Mukherjee stands as a remarkable example of compassion, commitment, and transformative action. His life's mission has been defined by an unwavering desire to uplift the marginalized and offer hope to communities that need it most. Over the past decade, his philanthropic initiatives have touched thousands of lives, giving people not just basic necessities but a renewed sense of dignity and a pathway to a brighter future.

Born in Berlin, Germany on December 19, 1970, and raised in Kolkata from the age of three, Rabindranath's early life was marked by strong family values and deep cultural roots. He is BSc, MBA and Doctorate degree holder. However, his true calling emerged from profound personal loss. Between 2010 and 2013, he lost his father and two uncles to Alzheimer's disease and dementia. These tragedies fueled his determination to fight the illness and support those suffering from it.

Dr. Rabindranath began by making small donations towards Alzheimer's research, which gradually evolved into a long-term relationship with the Alzheimer's and Dementia Society of India (ARDSI). His annual contributions have supported critical care for many patients. Recognizing the severe lack of emergency medical access in remote areas, he also donated three ambulances—two to the North Pointe Community and one to the Maradan GoodBye Club—ensuring timely healthcare for underserved regions.

His philanthropic journey took a significant turn when he encountered an Irish humanitarian, David, who introduced him to the NGO Paschim Banga Krira O Janakalyan Parishad (PBKOJP). The NGO sheltered girls from the Kalighat red-light district and boys from vulnerable backgrounds, offering them a chance at a safe and dignified life. Deeply moved by their mission, Rabindranath became one of their strongest pillars of support.

He began sponsoring the education of children in all three homes—Prerona (Bhawanipur), Amar Basha (Behala), and Vivek Boys Home (Behala). From school bags, books, and English classes to new festive clothing during Durga Puja, he ensured that every child felt valued and cared for. Believing that holistic development goes beyond academics, he arranged singing classes and facilitated access to clean drinking water by funding water installations in Kalighat—an initiative that has protected hundreds from waterborne diseases.

Understanding the importance of exposure and joy in a child's life, he opened the doors of his own Shantiniketan hotel and other partner hotels in Puri and Darjeeling to offer free holidays to the children—creating unforgettable memories for them. Over the past decade, more than 1,000 children have benefited from his support, receiving education, nutrition, clothing, and the foundation for a better future.

Rabindranath's compassion extends far beyond orphanages and medical initiatives. Each year, he donates 100–150 sarees and blankets to underprivileged women and senior citizens. He supports Missionaries of Charity, Mahesh Shri Ramakrishna Ashram, Serampore and contributes to the Chief Minister's Relief Fund, and sponsors the education of several students, including a young girl from a low-income family from Ramkrishna Vivekananda Mission Barrackpore.

He established a free clinic where doctors provide check-ups and medicines to twenty-five needy individuals every three Sundays, bridging the healthcare gap for marginalized communities. In honour of his late uncle, he also founded a gold medal at Jadavpur University and initiated an annual scholarship in memory of his grandparents every year.

Dr. Rabindranath's commitment to shaping young minds led him to establish Morning Star School, a kindergarten dedicated to providing high-quality early education. His future vision includes setting up an old-age home and an orphanage—extending his legacy of compassion even further.

His efforts have earned prestigious Honorary Doctorates from different Universities in Management, Social work and Psychology. He has also received Humanitarian Excellence Award (2021), followed by "Social Impact for Early Education" (2023) at Oxford Town Hall and " Excellent Humanitarian of the year" (2025) from Bengal Excellence Award. His contribution towards education and social work has been recognised both in India as well as Dubai, Singapore, Bangkok, Nepal, London and Washington DC.
