Moscow to Frankfurt to Sharjah: India Shines at International Book Fairs

As global interest in multilingual storytelling grows, India's presence at major international book fairs has helped showcase the diversity and relevance of Indian literature across the world. India was the Guest of Honour at the 38th Moscow International Book Fair (3–7 September 2025), with the National Book Trust, India (NBT), under the Ministry of Education, curating the first-ever India Pavilion at the historic VDNKh exhibition grounds.

The India Pavilion showcased over 2,500 books in multiple Indian languages, bringing together 50+ Indian publishing houses and presenting Indian literature across genres and age groups.

A major highlight was the launch of 22 NBT titles translated into Russian, reinforcing India's growing engagement with translation and cross-cultural exchange. With participation from over 60 Indian delegates, the Pavilion hosted roundtable discussions on children's literature, poetry readings, musical performances, documentary screenings, and a Virtual Reality experience zone.

The Pavilion was inaugurated in the presence of Mr. Alexander Alimov, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Russia, His Excellency Mr. Vinay Kumar, Ambassador of India to Russia, Mr. Govind Jaiswal, Joint Secretary, Ministry of Education (MoE), Prof Milind Sudhakar Marathe, Chairman, NBT-India, Mr. Vladimir Viktorovich Grigoriev, Director, Ministry of Digital Development, Russia and Mr. Yuvraj Malik, Director, NBT-India.

At the 77th Frankfurt Book Fair (15–19 October 2025), the world's largest publishing and rights marketplace, NBT curated the India National Stand under the theme "Read and Explore India" In collaboration with the Consulate General of India, Frankfurt, the Stand featured, for the first time, an exclusive India Stage, creating a dedicated space for dialogue between Indian and international thought leaders, publishers, and industry experts.

The India National Stand showcased a Collective Exhibit of Books from India, featuring works from over 90 publishers, alongside 12 publishers participating in person. A Rights Catalogue of nearly 250 titles was released to promote translation, copyright exchange, and international publishing partnerships. A key milestone was the launch of 17 Indian children's books translated into German, bringing Indian stories to European readers through high-quality translation and design. The India Stage hosted a wide range of international dialogues with the European Union, Greece, the Philippines, Algeria, and Colombia, focusing on themes such as promoting reading culture, translation, traditional knowledge, sustainability, audiobooks, comics, and emerging publishing formats.

In addition to Moscow and Frankfurt, an India Pavilion was also unveiled at the Sharjah International Book Fair 2025.

These engagements strengthened collaboration ahead of future international partnerships, including India's upcoming Guest of Honour participation at 38th Bogotá International Book Fair 2026. NBT's international participation reflects a consistent vision: to present India as a dynamic, multilingual and globally engaged publishing nation.
