

He loved science, classical music and photography, but most of all, Rajiv Gandhi loved flying, and all manner of flying machines. Pressured into joining politics after his brother Sanjay's death in 1980, he won the parliamentary bypolls to the Amethi seat that year. In 1982, his role in the organisation of the Delhi Asian Games won him plaudits. Here, he is at an air show at the Hindon air force station in Uttar Pradesh, near Delhi
