FOOD ▼

Reinvention on the Menu

Restaurateur Zorawar Kalra gives his cult favourite Farzi Café a cutting-edge reboot with Farzi. Forward.

AJAY KUMAR GAUTAM

A DASH MORE (Clockwise) Zorawar Kalra; Interior of Farzi. Forward.; Avocado Laphing Roll; (top right) Chicken Waffle

At Farzi. Forward., the new avatar of Farzi Café at CyberHub Gurugram, diners can dig into, among other enticements, Savoury Ghevar Chaat, Thecha Burrata Bomb, Dal Chawal Arancini, Spicy Andhra Chicken Taftan Pizza and a Naga Chilli Cheese Jalebi. That last, Zorawar Kalra, founder & managing director, Massive Restaurants Pvt. Ltd, feels "is going to be one of the most viral dishes of the country". It looks exactly like a jalebi, but is made out of potato, isn't sweet, and is served with a sesame and cheese dip where you might be expecting rabri. That's a classic instance of 'Farzification', which Kalra explains as "the deliberate injection of something cool, something fun, something quirky, something playful, yet remaining respectful of the original dish".

THE LISTICLE

BEST NEW RESTAURANTS ACROSS INDIA THAT SHOULD BE ON YOUR RADAR

▲ NISABA, Delhi

Chef Manish Mehrotra, formerly of Indian Accent, is back. One of the most anticipated launches of the year, Nisaba occupies 4,200 square feet on the first floor of the Humayun's Tomb Museum Complex and is named after the Sumerian goddess of grain and writing. The pan-Indian menu is inspired by Indian street food and Mehrotra's food memories.

▼ AMMAKAI BY BASTIAN, Mumbai

Bastian Bandra returns in an all-new avatar at its original Linking Road location. Ammakai—meaning 'mother's hand' in Kannada—is a heartfelt homage to Karnataka (especially Mangalorean) home cooking and features rustic-chic dishes like Methi and Carrot Puliyogare salad, Edamame Sundal, Mangalorean Sukka and Suntimunchi Lady Fish.

