PHOTO BY ARUN KUMAR

RANK 5 XLRI, JAMSHEDPUR

FUTURE FORWARD Though XLRI Jamshedpur currently offers PGDM programmes, it has already applied to become a deemed-to-be university

THE EXPANDING FOOTPRINT

From an institute set up to train Tata Steel's labour unions to a management school with growing ambitions, XLRI Jamshedpur is preparing to meet the challenges of the new age

BY KARAN DHAR

IN 1949, XLRI (Xavier Labour Relations Institute) Jamshedpur, founded by Jesuit missionaries, became the first institute in India to start a programme on labour relations. The mandate was to train Tata Steel's labour unions.

"The aspect that makes XLRI stand out is that we are the forerunners in starting a management institute in Independent India," says Father Sebastian George, the Director of XLRI.

At a time when management