

CHANDRADEEP KUMAR

FROM METRO TO METROPOLIS: HOW JAPAN CAN HELP REDESIGN DELHI'S URBAN FUTURE

"The most prominent example of our lived-in experience of Indo-Japanese partnership is the Delhi Metro. It's a model of punctuality and safety"

"How do we move up from a metro city to a metropolis? A metropolis is not defined only by infrastructure, it is defined by efficiency, sustainability and innovation"

"Dwarka can be not just a residential area but a hub for knowledge-based industry, innovation centres and global partnerships. It can be a destination for Japanese companies to establish regional centres"

SARDAR TARANJIT SINGH SANDHU
Lieutenant Governor, Delhi

INDIA–JAPAN: EXPANDING THE GROWTH HORIZON

"We are natural and complementary partners. Japan needs India and India needs Japan. Next year marks the 75th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations. Let us work together to commemorate it"

"We have already moved from merely agreeing on beautiful words and principles to driving concrete collaboration between our private sectors"

"Japan and India have been advancing on concrete cooperation to make the entire Indo-Pacific region more resilient and prosperous. We share fundamental values and strategic interests"

ONO KEIICHI
Ambassador of Japan to India

CHANDRADEEP KUMAR