

BMW Individual

For the scores of BMW fans out there, this is a great way to drive the iconic Bavarian car, with a stamp of absolute bespoke luxury. BMW Individual, which the German carmaker first began to offer in 1992 with the E46 3 Series, is now a luxe offering reserved for 25 select models, imported from Germany, USA and Mexico. BMW incorporates a strong art angle in its Individual offering—hand-painted parts are a case in point, eschewing robotic painting, and carried out by skilled paint specialists. Be that as it may, a BMW Individual customer can enjoy 155 matte and gloss colours. The process of 'painting' an Individual car is a study in itself. Given the complexity and specialisation of each bespoke share, the car can often undergo up to three separate paint jobs, in order to achieve the depth and finish required. BMW Individual sources its parts and supplies from some of the best suppliers in Spain, USA and Czech Republic, painstakingly transported to the assembly lines, resulting in a perfectly personalised BMW Individual experience.

Maserati Fuoriserie

The iconic Italian carmaker alludes to haute couture when talking about its bespoke programme. Aptly named Fuoriserie (Italian for outside the series), customers can practically create a one-off Maserati for themselves. Available currently for the MC20, GranTurismo, GranCabrio, Grecale and other models, the Fuoriserie offering lets you customise handcrafted details in the cabin, stitching, inlays, monograms, badging as well as more technical aspects like brake calipers, paint colours and even materials used inside the cabin. The home of Maserati's Fuoriserie service is the Officine Fuoriserie Maserati at its historic headquarters in Modena, Italy. In this atelier, Italian craftsmanship takes centrestage as multiple workstations quietly orchestrate different aspects of personalisation. A customer gets access to a Fuoriserie lounge at the Officine in Modena, where they sit with a bespoke specialist to co-create a 'coach built' car, while poring over physical samples of fabrics, leather, stitches, photographs and videos, along with a digital configurator. Once the client decides on the final blueprint, the car goes into special production, followed by a personalised handover, if you choose to travel to Modena for the ceremony.
