

is the man who once tortured her. "The play is rooted in a very specific political moment in Chile, but its questions are universal. How do societies reckon with past violence? What happens when justice is incomplete—or altogether absent? And crucially, who gets to decide what justice looks like? These are not historical questions—they are ongoing ones," he says, adding that there's also something deeply personal at the heart of the play: the tension between truth and belief. "In an age of competing narratives and fractured realities, that feels particularly resonant," he adds.

Dubey, who portrays the central figure of Paulina Salas, believes that the play is timely and universal in its exploration of marriage and humanity, in the post-'me too' era and in light of the revelations of the Epstein files. "As a storyteller and actor, there is nothing more exciting than looking at truth and bringing an audience into a world where we are asked to confront it," she states, while Gomber and Bhoopalam agree that this is a story that people need to watch and understand to see how conflicting ideas exist. ■

—Deepali Dhingra

Death and the Maiden will be staged from May 7 to 10 at Experimental Theatre, NCPA, Mumbai

THE PLAY FOLLOWS A FORMER POLITICAL PRISONER WHO BECOMES CONVINCED THAT A CHANCE VISITOR IS THE MAN WHO ONCE TORTURED HER

▼ May 15 | Theatres

PATI PATNI AUR WOH DO

How to make the film about a philandering husband, caught between the wife and mistress, fresh again? Add another woman. Ayushmann Khurrana stars alongside Wamiqa Gabbi, Sara Ali Khan and Rakul Preet Singh.

◀ May 6 | Amazon Prime Video

CITADEL SEASON 2

Amazon's third-most expensive series of all time returns with a second season, with Priyanka Chopra Jonas reprising her lead role alongside Richard Madden and Stanley Tucci as good spies saving the world against bad guys. Boom boom pow.

GLORY ▲ May 1 | Netflix

Karan Anshuman (Mirzapur, Inside Edge), among the first writer-directors to capitalise on the Indian streaming boom, has now punched Haryanvi crime with the world of competitive boxing in the state. The heavy-duty cast includes Divyenndu, Pulkit Samrat, Suvinder Vicky, Sayani Gupta, Ashutosh Rana among others.

— Compiled by Devarsi Ghosh