

ELEVATED LIVING
(clockwise from top left) Kid's room is a playful, pastel-toned haven; wood-lined master walk-in; dining area is defined by a jewel-toned glass chandelier; master bedroom is a serene sanctuary dining areas to flow seamlessly together.

While the general mood here is airy and open, we wanted to include a moment of high drama, which we achieved in the ground floor powder bathroom by using a striking black palette to create a memorable visual contrast. Throughout this floor, we relied on clean lines and balanced proportions rather than excessive ornamentation to convey a sense of contemporary sophistication.

Intimate Family Retreat

As you move to the upper floor, we intentionally shifted the mood to create a warmer, more layered atmosphere dedicated to private family life. We replaced the marble with rich wooden flooring to immediately signal a transition into a softer, more intimate realm. The design language here incorporates dark-stained oak and metal paint accents, enriched by subtle burgundy highlights that add depth and a sense of luxury. Transitional areas such the circulation passage are not just pathways, but as functional spaces, transforming them into a shared family pantry and bar. This ensured that the private level remains self-sufficient and comfortable for the family's daily rhythms.

Personal Expression

The master bedroom continues this language of understated elegance, combining veneer finishes with deep tones to ensure the space feels like a quiet, sophisticated retreat. In contrast, the children's room serves as a vibrant counterpoint, where we used energetic red and blue tones to reflect a more imaginative personality.

Throughout the residence, the careful selection of stone, wood and metal finishes creates a tactile environment that feels both contemporary and timeless. By clearly zoning the social and private spheres and focusing on intelligent spatial interventions, we transformed the constraints of the original structure into a home that is both deeply elegant and effortlessly livable.

Kiran Gala and Sonam Gala Gosalia are a prominent Mumbai-based designer duo leading Kiran Gala & Associates (KGA), specialising in high-end luxury residential, commercial, and interior projects www.kgadesign.in