Revive, Redo and Restore

In the historic heart of Mumbai's Kala Ghoda, Jayanti Reddy has occupied a century-old landmark. Her 2,850 sq ft atelier, designed by her sister-in-law, architect Mouna Reddy, is an exercise in mindful luxury. Instead of adding clutter, they stripped away decades of paint to reveal original wooden rafters and columns. "By embracing old-world charm, we brought out its essence by intertwining minimalist, functional elements," explains Mouna. With muted walls and unexpected pink stone doorways, the focus remains on the craft.
