56 PER CENT feel that India's political parties care little for their problems

Q. Was the resignation of the Union education minister following the NEET paper leak an appropriate act of accountability?

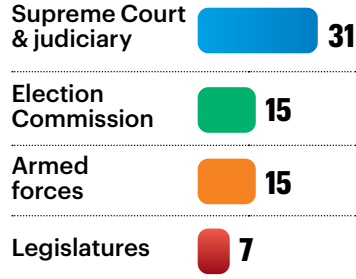

The overwhelming view—65%—was that Dharmendra Pradhan, the minister in charge, had to go

Q. Do you sympathise with the cause of the Jantar Mantar protesters?

The CJP protests in Delhi clearly caught the imagination of the youth

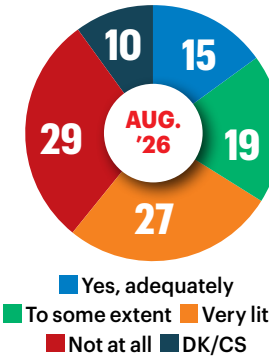

Q. Which institution do you trust the most to protect India's democracy?

Rest DK/CS

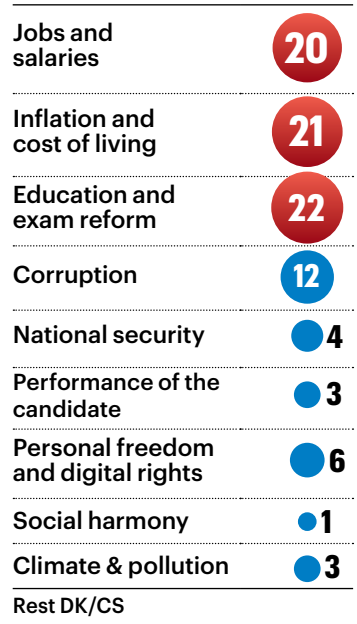

49.3% of Gen Z respondents felt democracy was in danger in the country

Q. Do you think the current political parties adequately represent the concerns of young Indians?

Young Indians have a sneaking fear that their concerns matter little

Q. Which issue would most influence your vote in the next election?

Rest DK/CS

Social issues take a back seat when worries of jobs, inflation crowd the mind

Q. What should be the government's top priority right now?

Rest DK/CS

The writing is on the wall. Gen Z feels the Centre is not putting enough—funds or ideas—into education and healthcare to make a difference