

Clockwise from left: Bunker Room at Una Hacienda, Bengaluru; Delhi's Noctis; The Theatre at ZLB'23; Deep Woods at Noctis with maple, coffee, porcini, truffles; Drinks at The Hidden Club are multi-dimensional

LIMITED TIME

Noctis, a 35-seater bar, is Delhi's best kept secret. No signboards, no peeping in, no walking in. Access is earned, and the experience begins even before you get there. There's a protocol and etiquette to being at Noctis. The two-hour slot is enough to savour the experience. "This time-sensitive reservation preserves guests' experience. Rather than maximising occupancy, we're maximising the quality of every visit. A great evening isn't measured by how long someone stays, instead by how memorable it was", shares Away Rawat, Head Mixologist.

WHAT THEY DO RIGHT

People are happy waiting for months to get there? They must be getting some-thing right: Rawat says the biggest difference is in the consistency of attention. With fewer guests, every table receives the same level of care. Every member of our team is trained, both, behind the bar and on the floor, to ensure that every whim gets a window. Chowdhury gets to observe guests' response to each element—the flavour, story, spacing,