

AVIATION

NEW LAUNCHES

There's an interesting evolution in the luxury aviation milieu. Airlines are enhancing business class offerings to phase out first class. And the few who choose to retain first class are going all out. Lounges are stepping up their curation and new food and beverage concepts are being rolled out on board. The passenger is spoilt for choice and airlines are pulling out all the stops to ensure that the travel experience is being integrated with technology, smart design and an overall sense of curation. Here's what's new in the skies right now, on our radar.

Clockwise from top (opposite page): Emirates First Class; Riyadh Air's stylised cabin design; Etihad's private suites on the A321LR
Singapore Airlines' redesigned crockery for the new culinary experience