HOSPITALITY

TREND

cities globally. Occupying dedicated floors within Taj properties, it offers a bespoke bar, a European fine-dining restaurant, a cigar lounge with rare hand-rolled selections, and meeting spaces with a globally curated wine programme. The Chambers is where India's most influential figures convene behind closed doors. It does not compete on trend. It competes on permanence.

Membership costs Upwards of ₹50 lakh per year

CLUB PRIVÉ

ITC Hotels New Delhi, Mumbai and beyond

ITC's answer to the members' club moment does not stand apart from its five-star portfolio; it folds discreetly into it. Club Privé grants its highest tiers privileged access across ITC's marquee properties: preferred tables at Bukhara and Dum Pukht, priority booking and extended hours at the Kaya Kalp spas and fitness centres across the portfolio, and the quiet efficiencies of upgrades, late check-outs, personalised recognition; things that matter more to a seasoned traveller than any single amenity. It is less a clubhouse than a passport: proof that hospitality, at its most refined, can also be a membership.

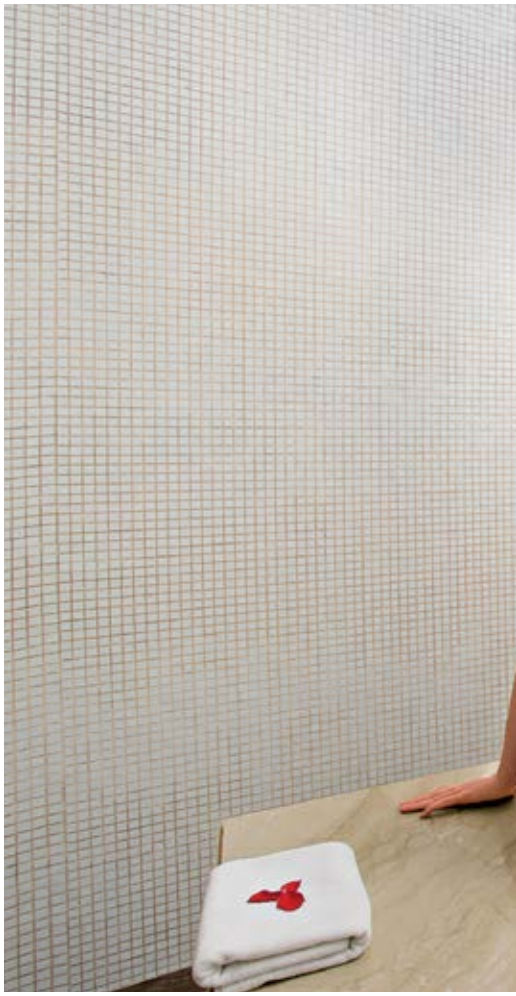

Membership costs Upwards of ₹5 lakh per year

THE CLARIDGES LIFESTYLE PROGRAMME

The Claridges, New Delhi

Opened in 1952 within the Lutyens diplomatic enclave, The Claridges wears its heritage rather than performs it: wood floors, colonial proportions, a lawn dotted with cabanas that has hosted six decades of quiet Delhi power. Its members' privileges centre on the Elephant Bar, run in the register of an old gentleman's club, and on Dhaba, the hotel's celebrated Punjabi dhaba-turned-fine-dining room, where a curated single malt and cocktail pairing programme has become a draw in its own right. Wellness runs through Cinqtuair, the hotel's award-winning spa, where Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy, Red Light Therapy, Normatec Compression and Cryo EMS sit alongside a state-of-the-art gym, dedicated pilates, spinning and yoga studios, and a pool overlooking the lawn—a genuine health-and-fitness wing rather than a treatment menu bolted on for form. Club-floor guests move through a private executive lounge with its own check-in. The Claridges does not chase the new-club aesthetic; it offers something rarer — 70 years of institutional memory in the middle of the capital.

Membership costs Upwards of ₹3 lakh per year

LODHI ATHLETIC CLUB

The Lodhi, New Delhi

The Lodhi trades ornament for seclusion—seven floors of accommodation arranged around a deliberately club-like hush, every room opening onto its own private plunge pool. Its members' currency is space and stillness: a cigar lounge and library