

Soleil by Claude Summer Pop Up

Holiday comfort food, served high above London in a classy summer pop up.

Some dishes arrive carrying very little baggage. A lobster roll, chips, roast chicken, ice cream: no introduction needed. Soleil by Claude, which spent this summer atop The Peninsula London's eighth-floor terrace, simply gives those familiar pleasures better surroundings. The menu can get undeniably Mediterranean, sea bass carpaccio, globe artichokes, steamed John Dory, before coming back to the simpler joys of a lobster roll with Koffmann chips or lemon roast chicken. For dessert, things remain true to instinct: tarte tropézienne, warm madeleines or ice cream from the trolley. Add Hyde Park stretching out below and cocktails in hand, and you have yourself a summer day to remember.
