OVERHEAD OPULENCE

A closer look at a fingerprint-inspired wooden ceiling that redefines the entrance lobby of a tech park in Mumbai

By RIDHI KALE

Photographs by ASHISH SAHI

Look up and get ready to have your mind blown. At the RTP Experience Centre & Art Gallery in Mumbai, PS Designs has transformed a massive 15,000 sq ft corporate lobby into a striking architectural canvas. While the walls host masterpieces by Subodh Gupta and Jitish Kallat, the true showstopper remains overhead. A mesmerising, wave-like ceiling installation uses finely crafted wooden slats to replicate human fingerprints. Rooted in dermatoglyphics, the fluid patterns channel four positive traits: balance, freedom, originality and focus. The timber waves flow seamlessly down giant columns as radial louvres, ground the towering space, improve acoustics and turn a transient walkway into a moment of pure, uplifting reflection.